

4. Why did Diamond stop disclosing information about owner families in the third quarter last year?

As DRII has expanded its global operations, its relationship with customers also expanded. This relationship includes not only its VOI members, but also our relationship with customers who visit our properties as hotel guests, exchangers through Interval International or RCI, or who have purchased a sampler product. Accordingly, the definition of owner families no longer was an appropriate measure of the global impact of our customer base and product offerings. Accordingly, the measure was deleted from our annual reports.