Thanks steve. I understand it is a difficult situation to control and as I have explained I have no gripe with you at all here. I am just trying to protect myself. I am aware that aw talked to a number of witnesses before they saw the police and that she was told not to do this. She then apparently lied to cs saying the police had asked her to do this, which was apparently untrue. The police had to contact her to tell her to stop. As such I am clearly still concerned that if she is prepared to lie internally at cs to attempt to bias the external investigation, having lied about the allegations in the first place which got me suspended and arrested, then she is capable of doing this again in an attempt to make my life even more difficult than it already is. I am just trying to protect myself which given the extent and number of false allegations against me I feel I am entitled to do.

This is a horrific situation for me to be in I wake up with a black cloud over me every single day - not knowing what the outcome will be, and I have now been unable to enter the cw offices for 2 months.

Against this backdrop I have returned to work and as you are aware I have worked extremely hard to recover lost ground. I have published numerous research pieces and either me or my team have spoken 5 or 6 times on the mike and have a full marketing schedule starting 2 weeks ago and running through the next few weeks.

My team (bar one who wanted me out to get my job) are delighted I am back as are other internal and external clients.

I have had 2 major shocking events in my life. I was in the twin towers on 9/11. I have had false allegations made against me that led to me being suspended, arrested and my movements controlled.

Both of which show a side of human nature i would never have believe existed. I just want my life back and I want to be treated fairly and I want justice to be done and seen to be done. What is happening here is pure evil and I do not deserve nor ever deserved this.

I hope you and cs understand my angst.

Thanks

Mike

Further to our email exchange earlier this week, I have reiterated to all concerned (except for McGeogh who I will catch next week) that nothing has changed regarding not discussing or disclosing anything about previous events that may or may not have happened.

I have further made clear to all concerned that it would be a disciplinary matter if we learn that anyone has breached this in any way. I have reiterated that they should escalate to me any breaches they observe.

All have confirmed to me that they've stuck to this and will continue to.

Regarding Amy and Alessandro chatting in a glass office they have both given me a credible and consistent story on about what they discussed, which did not include you or any prior events, and I believe in light of facts they shared.
