End of losses as Salida Strategic Growth Fund gets the axe

The decision to withdraw the fund, a decision made by the Salida Strategic Growth Fund Inc., will result in the liquidation of the fund. The fund has experienced significant losses over the past few years, with returns far below expectations.

Salida Capital has also decided to terminate its publicly listed fund, the Salida Strategic Growth Fund Inc., according to a letter from Courtney Wolfe, a director. The fund, after all liabilities of the fund have been satisfied or provided for," the letter states. The fund operates with a forward agreement. Once that is settled, the fund will end of the month. But the units will stop being listed on the TSX on April 23.

The Salida Strategic Growth Fund isn't the only Salida fund being wound up at the month's end. Calls to Salida were not immediately returned.

Salida Capital took a huge hit in 2011 and 2012, and in early 2010 it suspended a portion of its assets to protect its clients. Salida Capital has been in trouble for years, losing millions of dollars and collapsing under the weight of bad investments.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.

Salida Capital has also decided to terminate its publicly listed fund, the Salida Strategic Growth Fund Inc., according to a letter from Courtney Wolfe, a director. The fund, after all liabilities of the fund have been satisfied or provided for," the letter states. The fund operates with a forward agreement. Once that is settled, the fund will end of the month. But the units will stop being listed on the TSX on April 23.

The Salida Strategic Growth Fund isn't the only Salida fund being wound up at the month's end. Calls to Salida were not immediately returned.

Salida Capital took a huge hit in 2011 and 2012, and in early 2010 it suspended a portion of its assets to protect its clients. Salida Capital has been in trouble for years, losing millions of dollars and collapsing under the weight of bad investments.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.

Salida Capital took a huge hit in 2011 and 2012, and in early 2010 it suspended a portion of its assets to protect its clients. Salida Capital has been in trouble for years, losing millions of dollars and collapsing under the weight of bad investments.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.

Salida Capital took a huge hit in 2011 and 2012, and in early 2010 it suspended a portion of its assets to protect its clients. Salida Capital has been in trouble for years, losing millions of dollars and collapsing under the weight of bad investments.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.

Salida Capital took a huge hit in 2011 and 2012, and in early 2010 it suspended a portion of its assets to protect its clients. Salida Capital has been in trouble for years, losing millions of dollars and collapsing under the weight of bad investments.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.

Salida Capital took a huge hit in 2011 and 2012, and in early 2010 it suspended a portion of its assets to protect its clients. Salida Capital has been in trouble for years, losing millions of dollars and collapsing under the weight of bad investments.

The fund was taken public in early 2010. It has generated a mixed performance: In 2011, for instance, the fund was off by 53.39%; in 2012, the return was a loss of 43.3%. In 2013, the fund was up 2.06%.